Albus Dumbeldore
Head Master
Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry

Dear Albus Dumbeldore:

As head of Gryffindor House, I would like your permission for Harry James Potter to be the new Gryffindor seeker. He has shown great promise in his abilities today during their flying lesson. I saw him catch a tiny rembrall <sup>side</sup> out of my office window today with great speed and agility. He would be a great asset to the house team, just like his father, and we might be able to win the quiddich cup from Slytherine with Harry on our team. I also believe that allowing Harry to join the team would give him great joy and a strong connection to who he is and to his dad. This would be a great privilege for him and I trust he will behave and take full advantage of it. With all the time the quiddich requires, ~~between that~~ and his lessons, it should be enough to keep him out of trouble. I hope that you will take this under advisement and send a reply rather quickly. As you are well aware, of I very rarely will go to bat for a student but I do feel <sub>ww</sub> Harry deserves this chance probably more so than anyone else here this year.

Sincerely,

Minerva McGonagall

Mr. Albus Dumbledore
Headmaster
Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry

Dear Mr. Dumbledore,

This letter is requesting the permission for Mr. Harry Potter, a first year student at Hogwarts, to become a part of the Gryffindor Quidditch team, despite it being against the rules at Hogwarts for first year's. After observing Harry in his first flying lesson at Hogwarts, it is apparent that Mr. Potter is an exceptional flyer. It is quite possible that with his abilities and becoming part of the team, this Gryffindor Quidditch team could be our best yet.

It would also be necessary for Mr. Potter to have a decent broom- a Nimbus Two Thousand or a Clean Sweep Seven, for the purpose of becoming part of the Gryffindor Quidditch team. The request of a decent broom for a first year at Hogwarts will only be for Mr. Potter and will not initiate further requests for other first year's.

It is with utmost appreciation that you will consider our request of Mr. Harry Potter becoming part of the Gryffindor Quidditch team during his first year at Hogwarts along with the request of a decent broom. If you should need any further information concerning Mr. Harry Potter's request, please contact me at any time convenient for you.

Sincerely,

Professor McGonagall

Dear Mr. Dumbledore

In the last six years, Quidditch has been dominated by one team and is asking for a challenge. As Head of Griffindor, I would like to introduce a suggestion towards the Quidditch games.

It came to my observation that Harry Potter is very talented in riding <sup>a</sup>the broom. He would be a valuable member for his team and an excellent seeker. Oliver Wood, the team captain, is willing to train Harry Potter under his strict supervision.

I am fully aware of the first-year rule and I request an exception to policy.

I am available for any further consideration at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Minerva McGonagall
